Internet 101: The Amazing Formula That Can Make You A Success!
(C) 2002 by Dave Turner

Believe it or not, there is a special formula that makes people successful.

Unfortunately, you can't buy the formula. But if you could, it would be hotter than "Viagra!"

So, what is this amazing formula that I'm talking about?

Okay. Here it is:

1. Have a goal
2. Do what you love
3. Have relentless desire and determination

That's it. That's the formula.

Now don't be fooled by the simplicity of the formula. After all, if it were easy, everybody would be successful and we all know that's not the case.

However, the formula is definitely within the reach of everyone who really wants it.

Let's start with the first part of the formula: (1.) Have a goal.

Every ounce of human progress--our inventions big and small, our medical and scientific discoveries, our engineering achievements, our business successes--were first visualized before they became realities. High-tech satellites circle the earth because scientists made it their goal to conquer space.

So, what is a goal?

A goal is an objective, a purpose. A goal is more than just a dream, it's a dream acted upon. A goal is more than just sitting back and "wishing you could." A goal is a clear-as-glass, "This is what I'm working toward."

Nothing happens, no steps forward are taken, until a goal is established. Without goals, individuals just wander aimlessly through life under-achieving. They stumble and bumble along not having a clue where they're going. So, as a result, they never get anywhere.

Goals are as essential to success as air is to life. No one ever stumbles into success, without having a clear-cut goal. (Winning the lottery doesn't count). Get a clear picture of where you want to go.

Write your goals down and review them every single day. Formulate a game plan. Ask yourself where you want to be a month from now--a year from now--3 years, 5 years, 10 years.

Tape a picture of your goal on your bathroom mirror--whether it's a new house, a new car, whatever.

Make visualizing and thinking about your goals a daily exercise. Because it is only by doing this will your goals ever become a reality.

And don't worry about setbacks, detours or little bumps in the road--or big bumps either for that matter. Setbacks happen. That's life. Forget about it. Make the necessary adjustments and keep going.

Up next is the second part of the formula: (2.) Do what you love.

There's an old saying, "Do what you love and you'll never have to work a day in your life!"

Do you understand what that means? It means that if you work at doing something you truly love and enjoy, it won't really seem like work or a job.

Speaking from personal experience, I'm here to tell you that is absolutely the truth. Let me give you an example of what I'm talking about.

A couple of years ago, I made it my goal to have a successful business on the Internet, even though I had no computer experience and knew absolutely nothing about the Internet.

At that time, I didn't even own a computer. All I had was my Webtv and a truckload of determination.

Well my friends, to make a long story short, I'm happy to say that I've achieved that goal. And now I get to stay home all day, everyday and play on my computer, writing articles like this one and publishing my home business recommendation newsletter.

So, how did I do it.

I went to the library and taught myself how to use a computer. I read book after book on how the Internet works and I taught myself basic HTML (very basic).

Anyway, the bottom line is, I'm now doing what I love. Most mornings I get up at six o'clock, because I can't wait to get started. And most nights, I don't get offline until about eight or nine o'clock.

Now by my calculations, those are 14 or 15 hour work days. But it doesn't seem like work to me, because I'm doing what I love. And that's the whole point!

"Do what you love and you'll never have to work a day in your life!"

If you hate your job, find a way to do what you love so that you can quit. You may even have to work another part-time job or something to get to that point. But if you really and truly want it bad enough, you'll do whatever it takes.

Finally, we come to the third and last part of the formula: (3.) Relentless desire and determination.

It is also the main reason why most people don't succeed. They don't have relentless desire and determination. And any success you achieve will be in direct proportion to your desire and determination. Here's another example to illustrate my point:

Most people think that it's Tiger Wood's amazing talent that sets him apart from the other players on the tour. And make no mistake, his talent does play a significant role in his success. But what really makes Tiger Woods special is his "relentless desire and determination." He just wants to win more than everybody else.

It's no secret that Tiger practices longer and harder than everyone else on the tour. He also works out like a demon, which was virtually unheard of for a golfer, until he came along.

Now I'm not saying you have to be as maniacal about success as Tiger Woods is. That's simply not realistic. However, I'll repeat something I said earlier in this article:

"Any success you achieve will be in direct proportion to your desire and determination."

The more desire and determination you have, the greater will be your success.

Now after reading this article, I'm sure many of you are going to be wondering just where and how to get started.

The very first thing I recommend is a complete re-programming of your mind. Because before you can start walking down that road to success, you first have to get your mind right.

In that regard, there are two books that I consider an absolute MUST, if you are at all serious about being successful in whatever it is you choose to do.

The books are, "Think and Grow Rich" by Napoleon Hill and "The Magic of Thinking Big" by Dr. David Schwartz.

Your local bookstore should have both books, since they're all-time classics. If not, try Amazon.com. But whatever you do, make the investment in yourself and get those books!

Another thing, if you're married or living with someone and you suddenly announce to your spouse or lover that you want to eventually quit your job and "do what you love." Don't expect a whole lot of support or kisses and hugs.

Unfortunately, most people are conditioned to the "9 to 5, retire at 65," way of thinking.

So, if you expect support and encouragement from your family and friends, you're probably going to be disappointed. That's just the way it is. Most likely, you'll probably hear a bunch of negativity.

That's when you have to stay strong and focused. Because chances are, you're going to be in this alone. That's why the mind re-programming is so important. It'll help you stay focused and positive. And if by chance you do happen to have family and friends who do support you, so much the better!

Anyway, that's it. That's "The Amazing Formula That Can Make You A Success!" You'll notice that not once in this entire article did I mention anything about making more money. Why? Because "If you do what you love, the money will follow!"

In closing, if you want to be successful, you must NEVER give up. You must NEVER quit. NEVER! No matter what!

Til next time...
