The Internet Rat Race... How To avoid the Cheezze!

Ever notice all of the on line self proclaimed GURU'S!?! The one's who tell you exactly how to make a living online while you are in your underwear! Wow that would be a site! Sitting in my underwear all day... :o)

It's tough finding something that will work online. While trying to supplement your income or to completely be able to leave your job... I would have to say that everyone I know would love to be able to leave their job to do what they wanted, when they wanted and the money to do it with... Who loves their job that much anyway? If you do you are an athlete or something like that! Leaving our day job and firing the BOSS and never looking back would be great... I mean who really wants to work the same old job for the rest of their lives... NOT ME! I've got dreams, BIG DREAMS! And I can't do it working for someone else for 40 years... Who are they kidding anyway?!?

But what about getting involved with a online business that offers an affiliate or a MLM type program... If you have ever tried finding a product or program to market online you will have probably seen more than a couple thousand... I mean seen for your self for that matter... Not just reading about the several million out there... Who's counting now anyway... The problem isn't the program is self... It's the person joining or getting involved with the program... The program will work but you need someone willing to show you exactly how they did it... And not just a person who says they will, but actually fallow through with their promise...

What happens is this, a new person joins a program and gets some cool web sites... shells out some cash for the product reads all of the materials, page after page... Then the person who promises the world them isn't ever around to help them... The newbie will never emails their sponsor or anyone else in the group for that mater because they are nervous about contacting people online... They are intimidated for what ever reason... So with in a few months they give up and quit with out ever getting started... They feel like it would have never worked anyway, and rightfully so... I mean if no one ever told them what to do how to do it and where to do it...The whole idea is a hopeless cause... When will these people/self proclaimed guru's ever figure it out? You know they've heard or read it before... It's one of the most powerful statements ever put into words! "The more you help people get what they want in life, the more you will have of what you want in life!"

Now the newbie runs off feeling burned and either sees something else that is appealing!

Mistakenly feeling that it was the program and not noticing that the product or program isn't working because they were never shown how to get started... So inevitably they jump from one program to another looking for the one that works for them... And they never ever seem to make it... They end up just giving up all together! Have you ever felt like it is impossible for you? Have you ever lost money trying? have you ever quit before really getting started? The next time you attempt to get involved with a company hoping that it works... Be sure that you are going to get involved with someone who is going to show you the ropes... And not a noose!

Making money online is fun and really simple... As long as you know how... If you are at a point in your life that you are tired not making it... Just spend a little more time looking at the person you are getting involved with in what ever program... You have to find someone who is making money and someone who is really willing to show you how... A little more time emailing, chatting or talking with a person will go a long ways... Doing this will help you know in your gut, that they are going to be there along the way...

If you focus on that person and not the company you will be able to determine if they are all they are cracked up to be... Having those extra things you've been dreaming of most of your adult life will be a reality! I wish you well with your internet experience...
