Can u get free traffic from your Start-page on your browser 365 days a year?

By Jonas Carlstrom

The answer is of course, Yes.

How many times a day do you start your Internet webbrowser?

I know when I'm out surfing the net and when I stopped by at an interesting website which makes me think of another thing that I'll have to check that aswell. It could be a message I placed at one of my autoresponders, a similar offer I read in a forum or on a website. So I simply open another webbrowser window.

Ok I agree that I could use a program that can control of several opened webbrowsers simultaneously, but you still need to open the new browsers. The big difference with a multitask program is that you'll not have all the hassle with ten to twenty opened windows down in your program bar on your screen. I'll get back to that later in this article.

So we can agree on that we all opens our webbrowser a couple of times every?

This is just one of our daily routines and nobody else is going to do it for us (thank god for that). Daily routines are good, it gets even better when you can receive free traffic from it.

Some people call the thing I'm about to explain to you 'Startpage Marketing'. That's all right with me. I just don't think that you can build your online success only using this method, but it does work and it's free so why not?

And almost in every case something is free you'll then have to invest in your time instead. So the conclusion is that you now can generate free traffic while you doing the things you should be doing anyway. It's so simple.

Instead of using your regular startpage you'll now easily enter a special URL that you receive when you register to a Startpage program or Click Exchange program. Even if you had heard of these before, with my simple instructions and tips you will be guaranteed more traffic to your site.

The concept is like I said quite easy, when you start up your browser and your startpage is set up you will earn a credits. In exchange of credits other people will be directed to your website.

That's a no-brainer.

But a few credits a day won't get us that far will it? Hold on. Once your system is set up and in place, very fast it will be self perpetuating, creating an endless chain reaction of traffic to your site 24 hours a day, 7 days a week - Absolutely free.

Today I'm using 8 different Click Exchange programs (if you want to know which one I use, see the complete article with all the resources at my website).

- "But how can you do that, Jonas" ?

- "I can only place one startpage address in my Internet Explorer browser", I hear many people say.

I'll give you the answer in a minute. All of these programs will ask you designate your target URL (the site you want to promote).

But what if you have more than one page to promote?

Then my advice is to use a 'Rotator' where you can advertise 5 different URLs with just ONE! Smart isn't it ?

That means that when every time you'll earn a credit/vistor the rotator will direct them to one of your 5 webpages and the Rotator performs the distribution equally.

So back to the Click Exchange programs. When you register for the free Click Exchange programs you don't have to use different URLs, just enter your new Rotator URL to every one of them.

Let's sum up.

First you should get a free Rotator (especially if you're promoting more than one webpage) and receive your new Rotator URL.

Then sign up for at least 8 Click Exchange programs where you place your Rotator URL.

Almost done.

After you have finished signing up to each of the programs, sitting for hours after hours clicking from site to site which probably can cause muscle stress and more serious physical challenges.

I've solved that problem with an Ace down my sleeve.

That's right there was a thing I said I was getting back to..remember.

A webbrowser that can control all my opened pages. I'm using a program called Crazy Browser which is free, there probably some similar programs that can do the same.

Using this tool you can open ALL of the Click Exchange Programs in your taskbar and it still enables you to generate traffic and credits from ALL Click Exchange Programs at the same time!

Now you know why I use 8 programs. This will actually keep all of your traffic generator programs open at the same time and earn visitors for your website - over and over again 365 days a year.

The normal reaction from you would probably be:
-"Will anyone actually see my site if we all run on autopilot?"

One of the major keys to Internet Marketing is always CONSISTENCY it's all about getting recognised and get the visitor familiar with your website or service.

You'll have to start your Crazy browser everyday and be consistent.
The same goes with placing articles or ads, if you just place one ad here and an article there you won't see the results you want.
The customer will not buy from you before they feel comfortable with you.

Good luck and go out and claim your free visitors.
