

The Harvesters Part 2

By Laurie Rogers

The Harvesters Part 2

Laurie Rogers
laurie@zineadz.com

OptinFrenzy <http://www.optinfrenzy.com>

by Laurie Rogers Copyright 2001

Remember from part one, we are not talking about those folks who pick veggies out of the garden in the fall. This is definitely NOT an episode from Martha Stewart, although I'm curious to know how get my tomatoes to stop bruising, ooops, sorry got a little side tracked for a moment! It happens to the best of us, especially when you're weeding (pardon the pun) through all that spam trying to find your "real" email messages.

You know the important stuff, that really does need your FULL attention. And half the time you can't find it because it's buried under all that JUNK MAIL, I know how you feel, somedays I'd like to run to the highest mountain and SCREAM my head off. Maybe they'd listen, cause I sure as heck don't get a response when I'm screaming at them through the computer. (You're not the only one huh?)

Hopefully, someone will invent a system where you can talk to the email that comes in, the person sending can hear you right at that moment. That'd be awesome eh? Someone sends you some spam and you CAN tell them what is on your mind! You know, HOW you "really" appreciate their message. evil grin! Although, I do NOT think we'd get much work done, cause we'd be too busy cussing them all out.

You have really got to wonder WHY they keep spamming cause NOBODY buys their stuff. And let's be realistic for a moment, what in the world is the point in sending 1 person 500 copies of the SAME darn ad? I'm not the who's the MORON here! I CAN read, I simply choose NOT to read spam, and NO matter HOW many times you send it, it's STILL not going to change my mind. (You'd really think they'd CLUE in after the first 250 copies.)

Is there some kind of contest out there that we've been missing? Do they offer awards for this kind of junk? I'm curious because, nobody buys their stuff, so what EXACTLY is the incentive? If it is a contest what qualifies you?

*The Most Creative Spammer

*The Spammer - who actually got "A" sale!

*The Spammer - who's ISP never got shut down for a month!

*The Spammer - with most FAKE addresses

*The Most ANNOYING Spammer

What do you win if you qualify? 5 million FAKE email addresses? Cause you know they're not going to give out a REAL prize! (Once a con always a con) And do they all compete for Spammer of the Year? It sure seems like it! The fact is life goes on, and no matter where you go and what you do, there will always some "STUPID" moron that just HAS to break the rules!

P.S.

Try not wear out that good old delete key!

Did you miss part 1?

Send a blank email to ">mailto:harvesterspart1@optinfrenzy.com

=====
Laurie Rogers - co-author Ezine Resource Guide you can view at <http://www.zineadz.com/erg.html> You can also obtain more of Laurie's articles at: <mailto:ezinearticles@optinfrenzy.com> Laurie is also the owner of Optin Frenzy - list building program for publishers. <http://www.optinfrenzy.com>
=====

Get-Articles.com : 1000's of reprintable business and internet marketing-related articles.

Submit your article for reprint.