TeleClasses are interactive, live seminars conducted over the telephone using TeleConferencing bridges. They are led by a trained TeleLeader who delivers their content-rich message with high-participation from the students on the telephone line. They provide all the benefits of traditional, in-person seminars and more. The biggest draw of TeleClasses is the convenience.

One of the difficulties of attending seminars has long been the time-consuming and expensive issue of travel. In order to attend, a person must arrange lodging, time away from work or home and a means of travel. However, TeleClasses now offer a way to attend a seminar by telephone from anywhere in the world.

TeleClass International <http://www.TeleClassInternational.com> offers both TeleLeader Certification Training programs and a catalogue where TeleLeaders can display their courses. Typically, a TeleClass or TeleSeminar is about 50-60 minutes - a perfect length of time for an adult. It is now possible for businesses to train their entire staff at the same time regardless of where employees might be. It is no longer necessary for all staff members to be in the same place at the same time. Regardless of location, each employee can simply call into the telephone bridge system and be connected with the TeleClass. The problems once encountered with training employees from multiple branches, or in multiple cities or countries, is now overcome through the use of TeleClasses. After the call concludes, employees can return to work immediately. TeleClass International Certifies TeleLeaders and has a directory of Certified TeleLeaders that private businesses can view. Companies can now hire a trained TeleLeader to deliver their content. The directory of TeleLeaders is on TeleClass International's website.

Those seeking to enrol in classes for personal purposes can call into a TeleClass from wherever they are most comfortable. Attending a class while dressed in a bathrobe and slippers is entirely possible... and no one would ever know.

Courses can be taken early in the morning, prior to showering and leaving for work. Stay at home moms can attend class during the day while a child takes her nap. College students can enrol for special interest courses after their academic day is completed.

TeleClasses are an international medium which means calls can be scheduled 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Depending on the time zone, it is virtually possible to attend a call at any hour of the day that suits the student.

The new learning medium of the TeleClass promises to dramatically change the face of continuing education. By offering convenience to those who used to find seminar attendance cumbersome and strenuous, TeleClasses will continue to grow in popularity and functionality.
