In the last few weeks I have received numerous letters wanting to know what are some of the better products to sell on the net. I, like many others on the net, sell quite a few different products.

Of course the best product to sell would be your own but if you don't have one, there are a lot of products that sell very well. I am working on a product of my own that I hope to have out soon but even after that product is ready, I will continue to sell other products as well.

There are products that are proven winners and will continue to sell well. It might as well be you selling them as someone else.

Information products are in high demand and the opportunity is there to make a nice monthly income from selling them.

There are many successful products around but I am going to talk about the ones that have been most successful for me.

The first couple of products that I am going to mention are products that are put out by Terry Dean. If you don't know who Terry is, then you need to do more reading and less of whatever it is you are doing. Terry is one of the top internet marketing people around.

1. Netbreakthroughs - This is the best member site on the net for my money. The information that you receive from this site can be the difference in just being in the marketing business or being a successful marketer. Most who try this member site are kicking themselves for not trying it months ago. I don't care how long you have been in this business, I guarantee that this site will make you a much better marketer. The URL to become a member of the site is <http://www.moneyforhire.com/net>

That is the address to sign up for the member site yourself. To start making money by offering the site to others, you can sign up free at

<http://www.netbreakthroughs.com/revshare/ccShare.cgi?cmd=newsharer&id=braveone>

Sign up and you can start earning an income by signing up people to Netbreakthroughs. There are many people signing up daily, get your share. One of the best and easiest things to sell on the net.

2. Paperless Newsletter - This is by far the product that I personally sell the most of. This product basically sells itself. It is the best marketing information product on the market in my book. I highly recommend it for your own personal use and also recommend selling the product yourself. Most months, I sell more of this product than all of the other information products combined. You can get your copy at <http://www.moneyforhire.com/news>

You can then find the information to sign up to start selling the product yourself. If you don't get involved with any other product this year, get this one. It will pay off in information and is a product that sells very well.

3. Ezine Tactics - This product by Lee Benson is also another top seller around the net. I am sure you have seen the ads for this product quite often. This is another product that sells quite well and if you try it out for yourself, you will know why.

Here is the link to get the product for yourself <http://www.moneyforhire.com/ezine>

And here is the link to sign up free and start selling the product yourself

4. InstantSalesLetter - This product by Yank Silver has been very successful. This is another household name on the internet and his products always do well. He is the author of some very successful books as well. This product is another one that you should not only put in your own arsenal but one you should be selling as well. Here is the link to get the product and/or sign up to sell the product. <http://www.moneyforhire.com/instant>

5 Internet Marketing Center - Here is a place that has a few products that sell very well. These are products of Cory Rudl and if you are not familiar with him, well you need to spend some serious time reading. One of the best products offered is Mailloop, but there are others that sell well also. You can start selling any of their products by signing up free at

<http://www.marketingtips.com/sr/t.x/636812>

These are just a few of the many products available to sell. These are products by some very successful members of the internet marketing world. You can start selling them without spending a dime. Personally, I like to check out the products first because I don't want to sell something that I don't like but it is not necessary to purchase the products before you can start selling them.

If you have your own website, newsletter or ezine, you have the means to start selling informational products. I personally started selling them before I even had a website or before I became an ezine publisher. These are products that usually move well with targeted newsletter or ezine advertising. The pay-per-click search engines are also a good place to sell these products.

If you are looking for products to start selling, these are a few that have proven successful for me. There are others as well. Choose a few and start making a few bucks yourself.
