If you have a website and are looking for traffic, you should be using one or more of the Start Page Traffic Generators. They can start delivering an amazing amount of traffic to your website. This article will show you three that I feel are worth using.

1. Starblaze - This is probably the one that is best known of all of the Start Page Generators. It is a very nice traffic builder.

You get one hit for every six times you open your browser. You also receive 1 hit for each time your referrals open their browser. There is a lot of information available on this one. It has gained a lot of attention for the amount of traffic that it has generated for people.

The only drawback that I see at this point, is that it is getting more difficult to find people who have not already been exposed to it. You can check it out here.

2. ClickSilo - This Start Page Generator is officially still in pre-launch. I have just started using this one and I have been quite impressed with the number of hits that I have received already. You receive one hit for every two times you open your browser. You also receive one hit for every ten times your referrals open their browsers. I like the fact that you are receiving two hits for each time you open your browser. The downline doesn't create as many hits as starblaze but the hits you create for yourself, more than makes up for it.

You receive 50 credits for signing up and 100 credits for each person that you sign up. You also receive one hit for every time your downline opens their browser. This goes six levels deep, so you can create quite a downline to build traffic for your website.

One of the things I like about this one, they require the visitor to wait until the website loads before you can press a colored button to get credit for the hit. This ensures that the visitors to your website will have to wait until your site is loaded before they leave.

Another nice thing about this one is that, it is just getting off the ground and it is a lot easier to find people who have not been introduced to it. You can check it out here.

3. TrafficJumbo - This is another Start Page Traffic Generator that is in pre launch They have a unique concept. They do not allow replicated type MLM pages to be submitted as a website. This makes it so you don't see the same old pages over and over again, with just another affiliate number.

They also give you one hit for every two times that you open your browser. They are giving everyone who signs up before the launch (scheduled for September 1) 500 free hits. You also receive 50 hits for everyone that you refer prior to the official launch. You also receive 1 hit for every four page views that your referral generates.

When you sign up, they also give you a list of categories to choose what kind of ads you want to receive. This makes your hits more targeted. Here is a link to check this one out.

There are more of these Start Page Traffic Generators out there as well. If you are not using one of them now, I suggest that you start. They are free and you will be amazed at the amount of traffic that they bring to your web site.
