SmartPages Banned By Google! Not!
by Rob MacCurry

There has been quite a bit of controversy regarding Stephen Pierce's SmartPages. Let me relate my personal experience about this fascinating discovery.

Stephen's revolutionary e-Book, "The Whole Truth", is chock full of ideas. I was so impressed by his easily learned techniques and documentation of his success that I immediately purchased a copy of SmartPageGenerator software, so I could automate my own traffic explosion.

(Of course SmartPages is only one of the fantastic step by step methods Stephen includes in his book).

After a day or two, I participated in a forum I often visit. I was shocked to hear from the moderator of the forum that the use of SmartPages had resulted in whole domains being banned from Google.

Needless to say I immediately contacted both Stephen Pierce, and Armand Morin.

(He's the software developer that developed SmartPageGenerator).

Thanks Stephen. It's nice to know that someone with a big business takes the time to personally contact new customers. However, I'd like to let you know about something that concerns me.

A recent post in a forum I participate in said that SmartPages were being banned by Google. Could you please reply regarding this claim.

Thanks,

Rob

It's bogus ask for proof. They can't give any. However we continue to show undeniable proof that SmartPages are NOT banned and are incredibly effective.

It's is an outright lie started by someone we discontinued doing business with and had Armand do the SmartPage Software and not them.

The same people saying they are banned are using SmartPages themselves, they are selling The WholeTruth eBook and Armand's SmartPage Software.

Ignore ignorance of others. It's their own folly and obviously that have some weird obsession with us and have nothing better to do than to talk about SmartPages.

Rob,

In response to your question

The truth is smart pages are not banned.

Mine are up and doing well. Others I know who have been using them are also still up and running with full force.

There are no facts to substantiate this.

You need to understand this...

I wouldn't care if they were!

Yup, I said it. Here is why...

You don't just have one type of page. You have 3 types of pages Smartpages, SmartFrames and SmartFlash.

In order for a search engine to ban SmartFrames, they would have to ban all pages with frames.

To ban smart flash, they would have to ban every site with Flash.

You see, you are fully equipped to continue to use the SmartPage concept now and into the future.

Here is what Stephen Pierce said when I asked him about smartpages being banned...

Are SmartPages Being Banned? By Stephen Pierce

The idea that SmartPages are being banned is a myth spread by those who resent this simple precise concept being released are by those who were not able to cash in on the SmartPage wave with their own software as a joint venture or SEO companies.

We have zero reports of banned sites.

In fact, if any site were to get banned, it would first be our sites which are currently still active and providing relevant results for those searching under our terms.

So check your source of information.

Are they jaded SEO's? Are they software programmers who lost out to Armand's software and are not cashing in?

Check the source of your information and their motives behind spreading outright lies and distorted information.

The bottom line is not ranking... it's are you getting the targeted traffic that is converting into sales.

With the use of SmartPages the answer to that is yes.

We are not SEO's and have no interest in being a SEO.

We market products online succesfully and show others how to do it.

SmartPages work and we've been using them for more than a year and half.

We can actually care less about the details of SEO and the mechanics of search engines.

All we are concerned with is driving targeted relevant traffic to our product and service offerings.

From there, sales are made, relationships are built and all the talk and speculation ends.

It's about results... nothing more and nothing less.

SmartPages are simply an effective means of a diversified strategy of getting those results.

As you can see, SmartPages are alive and well.

Best of Success,

Armand Morin
